Now Available On Demand: Monetizing Large Judgments and Arbitration Awards

May 8, 2014

Kobre & Kim partnered with the Association of Corporate Counsel for a live webinar (now available on-demand) to discuss the hot-button issue of enforcing international judgments and arbitration awards.

In today's global market, obtaining a multimillion-dollar judgment is only half the battle. As the value of judgments and arbitration awards coming out of large-scale disputes continues to rise, so does the challenge of enforcing them. Sophisticated judgment debtors often protect assets by holding them in a variety of structures in offshore financial centers around the world, creating challenging roadblocks to efficient and prompt recovery that can only be overcome with the right tools and strategies.

During this presentation, Kobre & Kim's internationally recognized asset recovery team breaks down the complexity of the international judgment enforcement and asset recovery process through real-world examples and the alternative fee structures available to minimize costs and risks.

The panel further discusses how the enforcement process does not begin the day the judgment is handed down. There are numerous challenges that can be overcome with the implementation of simple tools and strategies prior to and throughout litigation to ensure that location and recovery of assets in satisfaction of a judgment or arbitration award is as effective and cost-efficient as possible.
